JUDGES WILL SHOW TRUSTS HOW TO BEAT CONGRESS

"OUT OF THE ELEMENTS" OF THE TOBACCO TRUST WILL BE "RECREATED" A LAW-PROOF CONTRIVANCE THAT WILL BE A MODEL.

Washington, June 26.—What can the people do? How can personal and public rights be protected from the encroachments of the supreme court? The problem is squarely up on congress.

"The people," says Justice Harlan, "are not going to stand the usurpation by the judiciary of the functions of other departments of government."

The tobacco trust decision has added to the feeling of outrage stirred up by the Standard Oil decision. Again Harlan's plain talk has correctly described the act of the court as "defeating the will of congress," "chaining the law," and "entering a lower court into the trust," in accordance with the "right of reason."

What the? What are the people going to do? The people are going to do nothing. The court will not be impeached. The United States senate would try that charge and an overwhelming majority of the senate, regardless of party, is controlled by Special Privilege.

Recall is a remedy proposed in the thoughts of westerners, but it is difficult to bring this remedy to bear outside of state jurisdictions.

Other remedies considered are: (1) Congressional legislation to require unanimous decisions in cases nullifying federal enactments as unconstitutional and (2) amending the constitution in some way which could not be nullified by a judicial decree.

The progressive group in the senate and house are hard at work on the problem, and it may be stated definitely that a remedy of some sort, well considered and radical, will be offered in congress at an early date.

Meantime time the full effect of the tobacco trust decision is being registered in the lower court.

The most remarkable feature of this decision is the order to the lower court to help the tobacco trust out of its predicament. The lower court is ordered to recreate out of the elements now composing it a new constitution which shall be identical in harmony with, and not repugnant to, the law.

The Standard Oil Co. case, left with its own devices in selecting its method to "disintegrate" the tobacco trust. The lower court is made a sort of referee between the tobacco trust and the tobacco trust to find a way to carry out the supreme court's "right of reason" in order to evade the Sherman anti-trust law.

The integrity of this device is apparent. The lower court is to be some-thing on its own account. The machinery devised by the circuit court for the tobacco trust will be adopted by all the businesses in the country. JUDGMENTS BY SUPREME COURT

By the decision of the supreme court on June 26, the appeal of the Canadian Pacific railway, which was argued by the C. P. R., is allowed.

In the original action, which was tried by Justice Beck, the plaintiff sued for the sum of $2,500. The special damages and $2,500 general damages for the delay and expense occasioned by a blunder on the part of the company's servants, who removed in error a coffin in which the body of her son had been consigned from the Canadian Pacific railway, against the company.

The following building permits have been issued from the office of the city building inspector:

H. Goodall, Shack, First street, $100; Mrs. Anderson, frame house, 14th avenue, $1,250; J. A. Dostler, frame house, Elm street, $1,000; B. S. Muller, frame house, Fourteenth street, $2,800; Wilfred Davies, frame house, 10th street, $800; L. F. Tobey, two residences on Fourteenth street, $2,800; J. W. Burns, frame house, $3,000; Gandy & Co., frame addition to building on Jasper avenue, $455; L. E. Dennis, shack, Third street, $100.

D. Lemmitt, addition on Henry street, $150; W. Taylor, shack, Twenty-fourth street, $200; J. Garahat, shack, Clara street, $100; H. H. Quick, addition, Jasper avenue, $1,000.

Some time prior to the signing of this agreement, the company had obtained from the provincial government an order for the printing of certain ordinances in the German language, the contract price being $400, and the company procured payment of the whole of this amount before any of the work was done.

After the agreement had been entered into, the company caused the work to be carried out by another body of printers, who carried it out for the sum of $200, and delivered the goods to the government. The defendants paid the plaintiff the whole of the purchase money with the exception of $400, which they claimed was a liability on their part, which under the terms of the agreement the plaintiff was bound to pay. The plaintiff contended that his obligation was in respect to only $200, and he sued for the difference, $200. Judge Lees giving judgment in his favor in the district court.

The case of Leslie Fuller vs. the Grand Trunk Pacific railway was referred back for retrial by their lordships.

Chief Justice Harlan vs. Dawson in the case of Hartman vs. Dawson et al was upheld. Fuller was carried in the original action as the vendor of a piece of property to the defendants, under an agreement which was subject to rescission by reason of the defendant's default in a covenant entered into by them. By this covenant the purchasers bound themselves to make improvements to the property to the value of $5,000. Chief Justice Harlan refused to make an order on the ground that the covenant respecting improvements was quite independent of the general agreement.

"THE GODDESS OF LIBERTY" AT THE LYCEUM THEATRE

At the Lyceum theatre tonight "The Goddess of Liberty" will be the offering of Sherman and Cleveland's Merymakers.

This musical comedy was written by Hush, Adams, and Howard, who are responsible for the "The Time, Place and Girl," and "A Stubborn Cinderella," musical plays that are well known and very popular. The comedy is bright and the musical numbers are just as beautiful as any of their previous compositions.

Something good may be expected from the Merymakers in this production, as Manager Cleveland states, this is the classic bill has presented patrons of the Lyceum and that's saying a good deal.

"The Goddess of Liberty" will hold the boards tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday, with a special matinee Wednesday.

MAYOR ARMSTRONG FAVORS PURCHASING DEPARTMENT

BELIEVES CITY'S BUSINESS COULD BE HANDLED MORE EXPEDITIOUSLY IF SUPPLIES WERE ALL SECURED THROUGH CENTRAL BUREAU.

Mayor Armstrong has taken the initiative in a move to form a municipal purchasing department, which it is believed would greatly facilitate the city's business and save thousands of dollars each year. A committee composed of the mayor and Commissioners Aker and Hutchins is looking into the proposition and will file a report in the near future.

The head of a purchasing department, Mayor Armstrong figures, would be in a position to take advantage of the city's purchases of supplies and materials, such as close family with everything needed by the municipality, prices, and finer handling machinery and anything else required. In other words, the mayor would place the city on a better business basis and relieve the heads of different departments from much of the work that now prevents them attending fully to their duties.

In line with his plan to establish a purchasing department Mayor Armstrong would have the heads of all city departments make early estimates for the next year, so that byways may be submitted to the ratifiers and tenders called for in October, thereby taking advantage of low prices, and short cost. The work for next year would therefore be laid out practically at once, and the city would have proved a great saving to the municipality, says the mayor. This could be done.

RUSHING CONSTRUCTION OF NEW LEGISLATIVE BUILDING

EXTERIOR WORK OF STRUCTURE WILL ALL BE COMPLETED BEFORE SNOW FLIES—BUILDING WILL BE FINISHED BEFORE END OF NEXT YEAR.

Before the snow flies this fall the greater part of the exterior work on the new parliament buildings which has been estimated will cost when finished throughout not less than $2,500,000, will have been completed, the roofs of all these wings, west and south, will have been finished, and all that will remain to make the palatial structure ready for the reception of the members of the legislature and the departments will be the interior finishing. This work will be continued throughout the winter, and it is anticipated that all the partitioning and the elaborate decoration of the interior will be completed before the close of 1912.

Two hundred men have been continuously at work on the colossal structure since the opening of the building in the spring of this year. A considerable number of these are employed by the Quilman Construction Co., in the operation of cutting machinery by means of which the blocks are cut to suitable dimensions, columns are turned and fluted, and such of the interior work as can be completed on the machines, is prepared. The government's own expert masons are engaged on the hand work which requires the touch of the free artist's skill. An average of over 150 men are in the government employ, masons, stone cutters, carpenters, plasterers, and electricians. Construction is now proceeding more rapidly than in any former year, and the transformation which has been wrought since the opening of spring is the occasion of surprise to citizens who have seen the building which had hitherto been made.

Practically the whole of the steel frame construction has been completed. In the south wing, which will be occupied by the legislative assembly, the partition walls have been in place. In the north wing, which will be the offices of the government, the partition walls are all in, and the workmen in the course of a few weeks will have finished the roof also. The general design of this legislative wing may now be seen to the advantage of the public, to be done is the plastering of the walls, and installation of electrical and other fixtures, and the artistic decorations of the interior. The assembly hall is a spacious chamber, surrounded by wide galleries for the accommodation of the members of the legislature, and the public who may wish to follow the debates. At the south side is the press gallery, behind which is a room in which the newspaper men may prepare their copy for the press. The speaker's room and the clerk's room, with strong rooms for the reception of house papers, are on either side of the assembly hall, and beneath is the legislative library, a commodious room which will be suitably furnished for the purpose, practically for all time to come. The various other rooms which will be required for the sessions of the legislature, are also placed in the south wing. In the basement are the offices of the king's printer, where the printers are now at work, upon the interior finishing. As far as possible the workmen are engaged in constructing the partition walls, laying the reinforced concrete floors, and carrying out other interior construction. The steel frame of the magnificent dome with which the capitol will be surmounted, is now under construction but it will not be until late 1912 that the dome will be complete. Granite steps by which the three large entrances are approached, are now being laid, and the granite work will be finished this year. The imposing columns and feet in thickness, on the east side of the main entrance facing north, are being turned and finished on the grounds.

BURGLARS BUSY IN NORWOOD

Calmly Enter House, Stay All Night, and Depart, Taking Valuables

That burglars entered the house, slept in it all night and in the morning calmly away with a number of valuable articles is the belief of the two boys who have been living alone for the past few days. The house is the residence of A. J. McGregor, an electrician, and the burglary occurred a couple of days ago. One of the boys, the son of Mr. McGregor and the other is a chum of his who came to stay with him while his parents were out of town.

The boys were sitting out on the lawn late in the evening when one of them thought that perhaps they themselves had left the light burning and went up to put it out. Everything appeared all right so they went to bed. About 11 o'clock one of the boys was awakened by a noise upstairs of some walking about. He got up, looked the doors and windows of the room and after securing a good stick with which to defend himself awoke the other and they sat all the night listening to the people upstairs. About 1 o'clock in the morning the noise ceased and the boys dropped off to sleep.

In the morning they were awakened by a noise of things being thrown around upstairs and heavy tramping. They began to shout and the burglars apparently alarmed ran down the stairs past their door and out through the rear without stopping.

The Glass Blowers' Association of the United States and Canada will hold its next annual convention at Columbus, Ga. on July 16.

An Argument Which Mr. Oliver Should Be Able to Traverse

When Frank Oliver was accused on the public platform in Edmonton of having been a party to an intrigue to wreck the Rutherford government in Alberta, he answered the accusation by calling the man who accused him a liar. Just this, and nothing more.

That is now many weeks ago. Since that time Mr. Oliver has had plenty of time and opportunity to "traverse the argument" of the accusation, but has failed to do so.

The suspicion that Mr. Oliver was not only a party to the intrigue, but that he actually engineered the intrigue has been very firm in the minds of Edmontonians for some time, in fact ever since the happenings by which the Rutherford government was forced to relinquish control.

There were many things which led to this suspicion. The course followed by Mr. Oliver's newspaper, the Bulletin, was almost conclusive evidence that whatever plot was under way the Bulletin was at all times at the service of the plotters. The well-known relations existing between Mr. Oliver and Mr. Cushing, the man who aspired to come out of the intrigue as premier, but who actually came out branded as a grafter, helped to confirm the suspicion. And the subsequent development that the Canadian Northern, which profited by a certain large land transaction at the hands of Mr. Oliver, was ready to take over the north country as part of their domain and therefore opposed to any arrangements by which a rival line was built into their territory, shows very clearly which side that company would be likely to use Mr. Oliver so far as they had him under their control.

More definite, however, and more to the point than any of these circumstances is the letter published in the Capital today. It is a letter from "Nobby" White, member of the Dominion House for Victoria, whose election was secured largely as a result of a convention manipulation in which Mr. Boyle was very active. It is written to Mr. Boyle, member for Sturgeon, who, it will be remembered, was whip of the insurgent movement and who, when Mr. Cushing got cold feet and spent his hours blubbering in his room at the King Edward, rounded up the malcontents and led them back to the charge.

That a very close sympathy existed between "Nobby" White and Mr. Oliver has never been questioned, even by the greatest admirers of Oliver. So close, in fact, was this sympathy, that it was a matter of general understanding that White was merely the proxy head of the intrigue, acting in Oliver's behalf.

That Mr. Boyle was working in consonance with a preconceived arrangement was also generally conceded in Edmonton, although, until the publication of this letter, the proof has been lacking. Possibly a close investigation of Mr. Oliver's bank account might show more evidence of this, but such an investigation is a matter for the committee at Ottawa.

In the letter, however, the existence of an intrigue is very clearly set out, and the fact that the Alberta government was upset merely to satisfy the desires of certain interests closely in touch with the leading politicians at Ottawa and not for any high motives connected with the welfare of Alberta is very clearly set out.

A diagnosis of the letter is not without interest even at this late date, and it comes particularly appropos owing to the fact that Mr. Oliver is at present in Alberta and that he proposes to hold a meeting in Edmonton in the near future. Mr. Oliver might invite to the meeting Mr. White, who is now in Fort Saskatchewan, and Mr. Boyle, who is in town, and together the three of them might explain the letter.

It would be worth while knowing why Mr. White, Mr. Oliver's close friend, hastens to congratulate Mr. Boyle on the upset of the liberal government, elected by the party of which they presume to be leaders, and why the felicitation at having been able to pry the premier off, notwithstanding that he "died noticeably hard." How does Mr. White, who admits that he never saw an Alberta government in action, come to the conclusion that the Cushing cabinet, and not the government elected by the people of the province, was the aggregation in whose hands the affairs of the province should be placed? Does not this savor of boss rule and dictatorship? And who are the dictators, and what is their interest?

By what right does Mr. White undertake to relegate Mr. Cross and Mr. Woods to private life, or to send Mr. Marshall "back to the farm?" Why do the other western members feel so good about the overthrow of a government which had just emerged from a general election with an overwhelming endorsement from the electors?

Some of Mr. Boyle's "wires were not quite clear," from which it appears that there were many, that the Ottawa end of the intrigue was in very close touch with the Alberta end; that, in fact, they were in constant telegraphic communication. At the instigation of Mr. Boyle, the Waterways commission went through some thirty thousand telegraphic messages in the C.P.R. office in search of evidence of corruption. When that was being done, why did not Mr. Boyle have produced the copies of these wires between himself and the powers at Ottawa?

And most important of all, why was "Hon. Frank Oliver jubilant over this last proposition?" What was his interest in having a government with which he had all along been considered in sympathy overthrown? Who was to gain by this intrigue? Who were the others with whom he and Mr. White were identified?

And in the face of all this, why, when he was accused of having been a party to the intrigue to overthrow the Rutherford government, did Mr. Oliver say that the man who made the accusation was a liar? Does Mr. Oliver still say that Mr. Adair is a liar? Or does he still maintain that he was not a party to the intrigue, and that it was his good friend "Nobby" White who was the liar when he wrote the letter? Or does Mr. Oliver admit that he himself was the liar?

Mr. Oliver is among his constituents. He owes them several explanations. They have a right to know where he got the sudden wealth which his bank account shows and what connection there was between this and the interests with whom he was associated in the intrigue against the Alberta government. They have a right to know why Mr. Oliver was mixed up in that intrigue at all. They have a right to know who Mr. Oliver really represents, the people who elected him, or the Canadian Northern Railway. And they have a right to know how Mr. Oliver, a minister at Ottawa, elected by the same party as the government which he was instrumental in overthrowing, can justify his action in taking the government out of the hands of the people and endeavoring, through manipulation, to place it in the hands of the Cushing crowd, who were to become the government without the process of being elected to the position which they designed to fulfill.

Mr. Oliver certainly owes this explanation to his constituents, and to make it he should hold a meeting. There could be no time better than the present.

VANCOUVER'S RUDE AWAKENING

(Vancouver World)

That Vancouver stands to lose a large amount of business, unless steps are taken as soon as possible to secure better transportation facilities with the north interior is so obvious as to need no demonstration. Education, in short time, will be ready to take up the trade of the whole Fort George district unless something is done to secure to Vancouver her fair share. That share can only be obtained by the establishment of proper transportation facilities. Trade follows the flag, but the flag generally has to have a way fought for it. If the building up of a great city is a something to be desired, the little points that tend to that end must not be overlooked, much less a large feature in future trade like this. The Board of Trade and Tourist Association jointly have called a public meeting to be held in the board of trade rooms on Tuesday evening to discuss the matter of this needed railway action, with a view to having something done before it is too late and the trade is diverted irretrievably into other channels. All citizens interested are invited to attend. Notice: patriotic citizen should be interested. Cassin's lost Vancouver the Yukon trade that built up Spokane. Is another lesson required?

THE FALLEN IDOL

(Montreal Herald)

Diaz is not only out, he is being fought out, or rather, it might be more just to him to say that his much vaunted absolutism has turned out, as so many other absolutisms have eventually done, to be worn shabby and rotten to the core. It has been supported for years on cruelty, calumny and graft. The judgment of those who know Mexico is that Diaz was better than those who were his instruments, but he was not in the dark about his shortcomings. As soon as his strength was put to the test it failed him. His military supporters, upon whom he lavished favours of this even security, failed him at need. His government toppled in a province after province. And when his armies went out to fight for him and for their lives, it came to pass that graft had taken out of their cartridges all he enough to carry bullet twenty yards. In a land where anything from a mining claim to the national honor, could be bought for a price, and where force was the answer given to all criticism, the security of the government itself was at last sold out to the grafter, and when force met resistance it was found wanting—sold out. No use talking the despot, even the benevolent despot, is a played-out institution.

Wright fell from one of the big swings in the park severely injuring his back and shoulders. Medical aid was summoned and the injured man was removed to the Misericordia hospital, where he is now being treated. It was thought at first he had received internal injuries that would prove fatal but this morning it was stated at the hospital that he is on the road to recovery although it will be some time before he is able to resume work. Mr. John Gurrie of Haldimand, an uncle of the young man is his only relative in Canada. Mr. Gurrie is on the way to Edmonton. Wright came here from England.
The usual large number attended the band concert at the park yesterday afternoon. The programme rendered by the Gilgizans' band was an excellent one. The need of benches of some sort for the accommodation of the patrons was a matter of comment among the visitors at the park. Not a few of the people were soaked by the rain, which fell in torrents about six o'clock last evening.

ANNEXATION IS AN IRRIDESCENT DREAM

SO SAYS U. S. SENATOR GALLINGER, WHO WAS BORN IN THE DOMINION

Washington, June 26.—Statements in the Senate recently by Senator Benjamin H. Gallinger, of Idaho, that "whatsoever we have taken from England has been taken at the point of the bayonet," produced the only true moment of the short debate on the Canadian reciprocity bill.

Senator Nelson of Minnesota, declaring that his only hope of benefit from the Canadian reciprocity agreement was that it might lead to annexation of Canada.

"Canadian annexation at this time is an iridescent dream," said Senator Gallinger, who is a Canadian by birth. "At one time it was seriously considered by the leading men of Canada; but now that country has grown to be a big, strong, self-asserting nation, and with this treaty we will further strengthen it."

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts renewed his argument that the reciprocity agreement as it stands is not reciprocal on wood pulp and paper. "I intend to vote for the reciprocity measure," said Senator Lodge, "because I think in the long run it will draw the United States and Canada closer together."

KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

Vancouver, B.C., June 25.—Wm. Paynter, 34, and George Byrd, 15, were instantly killed this morning by an explosion of dynamite. How the explosion occurred is a mystery. They were living in a cabin on Shaleness heights, and had 250 pounds of dynamite stored there. Early today there was a terrific explosion, the cabin and men being blown to pieces.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

The first official convention utterance favoring protection to American industries was contained in the Democratic platform upon which Andrew Jackson ran for President in 1828.

It is said that prominent Democratic leaders of Cincinnati and Cleveland will join in a movement to displace Harvey C. Garber as the Democratic national committee man for Ohio.

Representative William A. Jones of the First Virginia district, who desires to succeed Senator Martin, is the oldest Democratic member of the House in point of service.

Congressman Robert F. Broussard, who has announced his candidacy for the United States senate, is one of the veteran members of Congress, having represented the Third Louisiana district continuously for fifteen years.

On his visit to Indianapolis next week, President Taft will be entertained as the guest of the Marion club, the leading Republican organization of Indiana. He will spend the night at the home of former Vice President Fairbanks.

Interest in the Democratic primaries to be held in Kentucky on July 1 centers chiefly in the contest for the party endorsement for United States senator. Senator Thomas H. Paynter is a candidate for re-election. His opponent is Ollie M. James, who has represented the First Kentucky district in the House of Representatives since 1902.

The fussy guest looked over the order that had been served him, and then summoned the waiter. "Look here!" he exclaimed. "You have brought me coffee, but I order coffee!"

"No, sir. That isn't coffee, sir—it's tea."

"Are you sure that's tea?"

"Absolutely, sir."

"Well, I ordered cocoa!"

A man, subsequently identified as a merchant in a southern city, was taken to a brain specialist for treatment for aphasia. When asked, his name he searched his pockets, producing a huge roll of bills, but nothing to identify himself.

"See here, doctor," he exclaimed, "I've entirely forgotten my name and

In an English opera company, formed for the summer months, it was found that the tenors were too light for the rest of the chorus.

The manager protested that there were voices enough, and the leading tenor was questioned why he did not sing with more force. His answer to the remonstrances of the manager was:

"I am paid summer wages, and I refuse to sing in anything but summer voice." The engagement of the tenor and his summer voice came to a speedy termination.

A few days ago a second-class stock-car was paraded before the command-racks on a charge of insubordination. Its insubordination took the form of resistance to being introduced to the swimming bath. Asked what he had to say for himself, the car replied:

"Sir, I've only bin in the navy three days. The first day the doctor dravvled six of my teeth. The second day I was vaccinated. And the third day the petty officer he says, 'Gum along, we're a-going to dravv yer eye.'"

During Victor Hugo's exile, Dumas went to Guernsey, where Hugo received him kindly, and took him to breakfast on a veranda overlooking the ocean.

It did not take Dumas long to discover that Hugo was already posing as the prescribed prophet, and when the poet said, with an Olympian wave of his hand:

"You see me, my dear Dumas, on my rack of exile like the prescribed one of antiquity."

"Never mind," said Dumas, with his mouth full, "the butter is far better here than in Paris. There is no disputing that."

An Irishman came into a barber shop, and the unsteady gait with which he approached the chair showed that he had been imbibing of the produce of the still. He wanted his hair cut, and while the barber was getting him ready went off into a sleep.

His head kept bobbing from one side to the other, and at length the barber in making a snip cut off the lower part of his cap. The barber jumped about and howled and a crowd of neighbors rushed in.

Finally the demonstration became so great that it began to attract the attention of the man in the chair, and he opened one eye and said:

"Who's that the matter with yer?"

"Good Lord," said the barber, "I've cut off the whole lower part of your cap."

"Have ye? Ah, thin, go on wid yer business—it was too long, anyhow!"

General Lee one day found Dr. Catling, an army surgeon, who was handsome and dandy man, arranging his cravat complacently before a glass.

"Catling," said Lee, "you must be the happiest man in creation."

"Why, general?"

"Why," replied Lee, "because you are in love with yourself, and have not a rival on the earth."

Secretary Brady of the Irish Emigrant Society believes that the Tories and Unionists will try to dodge home rule. Bidding and retreating, they make him think of Mrs. Smith.

"I understand," another lady said to Mrs. Smith, "in 1 year husband can't meet his creditors."

Mrs. Smith, smiling frankly, answered: "I don't believe he wank 'em."

On a large estate in the Scottish highlands it was the custom for a pier to play in front of the house every week day morning to awaken the residents. After an over-convivial Saturday night however, the pier forgot the day and began his reveille (can it be played on the pipes?) on Sunday morning. The angry master shouted to him from the bedroom window:

"Here, do you not know the fourth commandment?"

And the pier sturdily replied: "Na, sir, but if ye'll—hie—whistle I'll hie—try it, sir."

Wilbur F. Steele, a Dakota legislator, took no stock in woman suffrage—except when he was obliged to. Once the woman suffrage bill was before the house, a call was made for a vote, and the clerk proceeded to call the roll. When Steele's name was reached he rose, with the dignity of a householder, and commenced: "Mr. Speaker, I am sorry that I cannot support this bill, but—"

At this moment a well-dressed lady was seen to head over the gallery rail, in a loud voice she exclaimed: "W-i-l-b-e-r!"

He glanced upward. It was enough. He turned and said:

"Mr. Speaker, I vote aye."

The lady was Mrs. Steele.

Carlisle smoked often and complained much of dyspepsia. A friend once ventured to suggest that his smoking might perhaps injure and depress him.

"Nonsense," Carlisle said, "and the doctors told me the same thing. I left off smoking and was very miserable; so I took to it again, and was very miserable still; but I thought it better to smoke and be miserable than to go without."

A Stuart is appearing for the plaintiff and O. M. Dinegar for the defence.

PROPOSAL TO MAKE COLUMBIA NAVIGABLE

United States Government Will In All Probability Co-operate With Canada

Nelson, B. C., June 26.—W. B. Farrie, the proprietor of Nelson house of trade of the Columbia river navigation scheme, has received a letter from Hon. William Pugsley, minister of the works, stating that the proposal for Canadian co-operation with the United States government in the navigation of the Columbia river is navigable in its upper course, is receiving the government's consideration, and that he hopes to have provision made for an early survey of the Columbia from the Winnipeg to the international boundary. This confirms the information made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier when here last fall, that the government would make an estimate of the cost involved. A. B. Mackenzie, secretary of the Associated boards of trade of Eastern British Columbia, has just issued from Rossland a circular to the chambers of commerce throughout the states of Oregon and Washington, inviting information as to the commerce to be developed, and the influence this great water route would have in the determination of railway rates between the salt water and the interior. The American government is constructing works at Kettle Falls and at the Dalles, and at the present rate of progress will have the river completely navigable to the Canadian boundary in a very few years. On the Canadian side the river is navigable to Robson's 22 miles whenever the level of four feet above dead low water, and from Robson to Arrowhead, a distance of 125 miles. From that point to the Windermere is 100 miles, traversing a route of great native wealth. A more title of what the American government is spending will give a great portion of the Kootenay across to the sea.

WARSHIPS ON LAKES

Sir Edward Grey, the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, said the Government could not request the United States to withdraw the vessels now on the lakes. No arbitration treaty, he said, had been broken by the presence of these warships on the Great Lakes.
